Task #2 – Answers

1. Why are kiwis delaying their dental treatments, according to the video?
Because It is extremely expensive to most people that took part in the poll
2. What was the main result of the poll?
“A very strong number of respondents, in the high 70s, said yes, they do think that the government should be funding dental care” (1:04)
3. How much do people pay for a dentist visit, according to the interviewee?
“On average, people spend NZ$300 per visit if they do have the funds to go.”
4. Is the interviewee asking for the dental care to be part of the health system? If so, why?
“Ultimately, that would be something we would like to see... In the meantime, governments would have to look at staged access to subsidised care.” “And if that would be continue to be done over a period of time, in a few years we would find that there will be significantly improved outcomes.”
5. Is the government looking for a "sugar tax" solution? What does the interviewee think about this tax?
“This government said that they will not look at a ‘sugar tax’. That would be an obvious indirect way in which access to dental care could be directly funded.”
